
From: Oliver Senter [o.senter@ucl.ac.uk]
Sent: lundi 25 mai 2009 11:43
To: MARE CFP CONSULTATION
Subject: Contribution to the consultation - Citizen

Hi,

Scrap the CFP. Let each European country have its own 200nm EEZ. Then each country can manage its resource as it sees fit - ideally by auctioned property rights that are tradable. I like your idea of reducing discards by recording the fisherman, however this will be expensive to enforce (who is going to watch the endless hours spent at sea?) and easy to cheat (turning the cameras off, obscuring their vision, not bringing on board catches that look bad). Please don't ruin the European fisheries again!

--
Oliver Senter
UCL Economics
o.senter@ucl.ac.uk